

CONTEMPORARY RESEARCH PROBLEMS OF URBAN TRANSPORT ECONOMICS ISSUES

Summary

Development of contemporary cities is determined by efficient and effective urban transport. In the result many research are devoted to urban transport economics issues. The main aim of these research is to show the direction of the efficient urban transport development. Contemporary the basic research problems of urban transport economics are:

- the preferences and mobility behaviour of citizens,
- integration of subsystems of urban transport and integration of urban transport with regional transport,
- shaping the transport offer.