

Jerzy Wronka

THE FUTURE OF COMBINATED TRANSPORT IN POLAND

Sustainable transport development means that all environmental friendly modes and technologies, especially combined/intermodal transport systems should be promoted both by Commission and Member States until external costs of transport will be fully internalized. Therefore it can be afraid about the future of combined transport development in Poland, because combined transport operators are not able compete alone with road transport without state's support under comprehensive transport policy measures.

Translated by Jerzy Wronka