

INTEGRATION PHENOMENON IN BANKING AND FINANCIAL SECTOR

Summary

The study presents the phenomenon of integration in the financial and banking sector as a new and complex subject of scientific research. The nature and different relations occurring within this phenomenon have been presented. A classification of these relations, helping to grasp them and recognize as effectively as possible has been proposed. The focus was on capital and non-capital relations of banks with different financial entities. The study is of theoretical-cognitive character.