TRANSPORT AND SOCIAL EXCLUSION

Summary

Transport, because of performed functions, is usually perceived as the factor of the social inclusion. However, it doesn’t mean that in certain conditions transport can contribute to social exclusion. So far, the knowledge to this topic is little spread in literature, especially Polish. Certain aspects of social exclusion are noticed in the researches about the transport accessibility.

In the article certain theoretical aspects of analysis of connections of the transport with social exclusion were presented.