THE TRANSPORT ACCESSIBILITY
AS THE ELEMENT SHAPING THE TOURIST ATTRACTIVENESS OF THE WEST-POMERANIAN VOIVODESHIP

Summary

An evaluation of the transport accessibility of the region is a purpose of the article on the example of the province of the Zachodniopomorskie as essential element developing his tourist attractiveness, as well as analysis and the evaluation of the relation between the development of the transport and the tourist movement and the forecast of changes of these sizes in taking back to the explored province. It results from conducted researches that the size of the number of foreigners using the tourist accommodation was characterized by a strong dependence on the number of passengers waited on at inspected airports and was it is a relation about positive character. Next from conducted forecasts one should draw a conclusion that in the nearest years an increase in intensity of the tourist movement in the Zachodniopomorskie province and a height of the number of passengers of the airport will take place Szczecin-Goleniów, therefore adapting the inspected airport for happening changes in intensity of the tourist movement is significant.
