

STRATEGIC DIRECTION OF DEVELOPMENT OF SERVICES
TELECOMMUNICATIONS MARKET IN CONDITIONS
INFORMATION
SOCIETY IN POLAND

Summary

The information society is a phase of civilization, which creates many new opportunities to develop social and economic life of modern civilization, changing significantly, existing key success factors of individual and collective. Thus, in the interests of individual countries and their citizens is as quickly as possible to meet the rules of the information society, because only its operation creates the possibility for further development. Poland in the information society development is very delayed, so they must be immediately taken radical action to change the status quo. This article discusses some aspects of the formation of strategic directions of information society development in Poland.

Translated by Wiesław M. Maziarz