

E-BUSINESS APPLICATION AREAS IN LOGISTICS Summary

The efficiency of logistic activities in delivery chains is heavily influenced by the coordination and integration of numerous parties' activities. Fast and efficient exchange of information between the components of the chain via modern electronic communication units, followed by the implementation of the modern information management systems, increases the competitive advantage of the company on the market and makes the increase in customer service quality possible.

Translated by Barbara Kos