TRAINING OF IT PROFESSIONALS

Summary

Certificates are a tool of human resource management. Computers, where there is no skills assessment system, offers a variety of certificates, which deserves a special attention offer EcDL Foundation, which offers universal certificates for the user tools, and certified professional. There are no qualifying standards for the profession but computing makes human resource management processes are difficult to implement. this paper proposes a system to provide the basis for certification of eligibility EuOIP in IT occupations. Additionally, the system EUCIP certified professional degrees and the Bologna system of teaching in higher education may be complementary in the evaluation procedures literacy skills.

Translated by Marek Mikolajski