QUALITATIVE ASPECTS IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF REGIONAL WEBSITES

Summary

One of the aspects related to quality assessment and benchmarking of web services is the selection and application of proper methods. Evaluation of quality web sites is usually a key factor in such procedures, and to compare sites with each other may also be a valuable aspect of the assessment. The proposed method provides a wide collection of relatively highly formalized criteria for assessing regional expert services, but it is also possible modifications to the assessment of other types of sites.
