Summary

In dynamic process of social evolutions higher schools play a role centers supporting development of local society.

The main goal of the article is presentation in what pitch different science disciplines, especially economics sciences and information technologies, they support local social-economy systems. Public Higher vocational schools are also allowed as relevant factor in a system of local finances.

Translated by Marek Mazur