POVIAT'S STRATEGY AS A VISION OF A LOCAL COMMUNITY'S DEVELOPMENT

Summary

On the basis of earlier statement we can identify that a strategy is a consciously described concept of complex system actions consisting in formulating a bundle of long-, medium-, and short-term objectives for institution, ways of monitoring them, and possible adaptations depending on changes resulting from variations of the environment.

The strategy specifies the scope and selection of means necessary and desired to achieve the objectives, as well as proceedings providing their optimal use in order to react to environment's challenges in flexible, optimal and adequate way.
