We present you with the twelfth issue of the Scientific Journal "Contemporary Economic Issues." The publication consists of papers prepared by authors representing numerous Polish and foreign academic centers. The journal is characterized by originality and a modern approach to the issues covered in the articles.

We confidently recommend the presented Journal to anyone with an interest in current economics issues. We hope that the articles will arouse a great interest among readers. We believe that the contents of this publication will help to a deeper understanding of the development and current state of the modern economy, and will contribute to the further scientific considerations. By providing this publication into the hands of readers, I would like to express our gratitude to the authors, remaining convinced that our cooperation will continue.
